Gregory S. Corpening was sworn in as the new Circuit Court Judge in ceremonies conducted by the Wyoming Supreme Court last week in Kemmerer.

Chief Justice Michael K. Davis administered the oath of office to Corpening on August 9, 2019. Justice Davis was accompanied by Justice Kate M. Fox, Justice Keith G. Kautz, Justice Lynne Boomgaarden and Justice Kari Grey.

Governor Mark Gordon appointed Corpening to be the Circuit Court Judge for the Third Judicial District serving Lincoln County, Wyoming on April, 26, 2019. Corpening fills the vacancy created with the retirement of Judge Frank Zebre.

Corpening has served as the Deputy Lincoln County and Prosecuting Attorney and as the Kemmerer City Prosecuting Attorney.

He previously served as the Lincoln County and Prosecuting Attorney, had a private practice, and worked as the attorney for Child Support Services of Wyoming.

Corpening grew up in Saratoga and received his B.S. in Wildlife Biology from the University of Wyoming (UW) and graduated from the UW College of Law.

He has lived in Kemmerer since 1991 following his graduation from law school.

"I am honored and humbled by the appointment from the governor," Judge Corpening said after he took the oath of office in Kemmerer. "I am grateful and deeply appreciative of the trust he has shown in me by this appointment. I will work hard to honor that trust. I'll be the best judge I can possibly be. "I would also thank the Judicial Nominating Commission for all of their hard work and miles of travel they put in," he said. "Thank you to the many people who encouraged and supported me through this process. I am very grateful for this opportunity.
